

SERINA
THROUGH SHELLY SHARON

SHE LOOKS FOR LIGHT UNDER AN APPLE TREE. A GENTLE beautiful soul, she has fair skin, her ears are delicate and shaped like butterfly wings. Her eyes are like almonds. She has a long tail. She closes her eyes and is transformed into an executive in a city, sharp-dressed and flowing with the streets. She has a full life there, but it is a dream-state. Or so we would say. But closing her eyes under the apple tree really does transform her. She likes these transformations, she feels herself in a different way, she inhabits a different body. And she knows that when she transforms she enters a limited world, but she is eager for the experiences she has there. They expand her. She is highly trained. She just has to open or close her eyes to step out or in. She loves the apple tree, the open field, the light, and the transformations. They are her nectar.

2016 – THE YEAR OF REMEMBERING HOW YOU CREATED YOUR DREAM WORLD

Your Human Conditioning Is Changing

The reins are in your hands, and you have learned to hold them. Now you need to take the lead, to set the course and point the way forward. When you close your eyes, your reality changes, and now not only in dreams. In fluttering your eyelids you touch

And this is your responsibility. Responsibility is not punishment nor a burden. It is not a list of duties and prohibitions. Responsibility is simply independence. Emotional independence. Responsibility is the creation of reality. Taking responsibility means to be emotionally independent.
